THE PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Mo Wise

Welcome to May! At our last Kick the Tires event, there was an interesting question posed to the group regarding the new Corvette SUV. It was asked, "are we going to allow these types of Corvettes to join PCC"? It is an interesting question as one of our rules of membership is that you must own a Corvette. Up until now, there was never a reason to specify that it referred to owning the sportscar model.

While it was a light hearted discussion, it does make you think about the other car manufacturers who have introduced SUVs to their lineup. Mustang, Lamborghini, Porsche and Ferrari all have SUVs. Do these car clubs integrate them or do they have their own SUV club division? When they have club cruises, do they force the SUVs to stay towards the end of their pack while cruising Santiago Canyon Road?

The SUV has long been associated as the "soccer mom" car. Reading some of the specs of these SUVs, it's my humble opinion that they are not after your typical soccer mom, but a soccer mom like Victoria Beckham.

Of the luxury brands (Mustang info not included-sorry, not sorry), the 2024 Ferrari Purosangue SUV has a base price of $400K with 715 hp. The 2024 Lamborghini Urus SUV base price is $235K with a twin turbo V-8 engine that puts out around 657 hp. The Porsche Cayenne Turbo GT (2024) with 650 hp has a base price of $198K.

Car and Driver's online article indicates that the 2025 Corvette SUV could have a price range as low as $60K and up to $80K depending on trim level. Even if this was off by 40%, it's still a bargain compared to some of the others listed above. And why yes, I would love a Corvette SUV as long as it's the Z06 model in Long Beach Red but I am NOT getting rid of my Z06!

For those reading and saying there is NO WAY I'm buying a Corvette SUV, just think back to when they introduced the C8. Chatter was that the car had an identity crisis, looks too much like a Ferrari, we don't like mid-engine..... Fast forward to today and look how many C8s you see on the road and not to mention how many we have in the club. You hear our members talk about the loooooonnnnggg waiting list for the C8 Z06 and now the e-Ray. All I'm saying is before we poo-poo the idea of a Corvette SUV, we should see the final specs.

The projections are that the Corvette SUV is due out at the end of 2024. So don't be surprised if a prospect comes to the January 2025 meeting with an SUV and a couple of kids. It just means that we might need some crayons on the tables. Note to self-do not eat the crayons. Depending on how old the kids are, maybe they can read off the raffle ticket numbers without squinting (like I do). More of our events might need to include ice cream stops and I know one certain member (RAY), who is cheering for that!

This was just meant to be an entertaining read. I don't want to scare any potential Presidential candidates in thinking that this is a real problem that needs to be solved.

Mo

Save The Wave!

Greetings PCC'ers,

Sandy Savanich

We had four great events in April that provided a variety of activities for our members. Dan and Kristine Miller coordinated their first PCC event, taking us to the Miniature Engineering Craftsmanship Museum. Nancy and Ray Marshall made sure we didn't go hungry by hosting another Food Court Friday. Ken James made sure we started our Saturday morning with a healthy breakfast with Corvette conversation and camaraderie, and Mike and Sheri Corlett took us to an All Corvette show at the Lyon Museum where we parked on the flight line at John Wayne Airport. Never a dull moment, or empty stomach for our crew.

I want to continue to thank members who have come forward with some new ideas for events and can't wait to see them to fruition. If we want to continue to have fun, interesting and varied events on the calendar each month, we need your input and time. Whether you're a new or a seasoned member, we welcome your ideas. And if your time is limited, you can always share the responsibility and co-host with another member.

As VP, I'm tasked with scheduling all PCC events and managing the club calendar. When you're ready to host an event, please contact me with your proposed dates to confirm availability. Prepare your flyer including details and send it to me ASAP to be added to the PCC calendar.

April 15

Cruise to Tinyville and Lunch at Old California Mining Company

PCC Coordinators: Dan and Kristine Miller. Ranked #1 attraction in Carlsbad for 2022. The Miniature Engineering Craftsmanship Museum is located at 3190 Lionshead Ave., Carlsbad, Ca. We departed from Carl's Jr. in San Juan Capistrano at 8:15 AM for a scenic drive to the museum. If you've never been to the Miniature Engineering Museum and missed this event, it's worth a trip. It offers something for all ages and gender. Afterwards we regrouped for a delicious lunch at the Old California Mining Co. Many thanks Dan and Kristine for hosting your first PCC event.

Special Event All Corvette Show at Lyon Museum

PCC Coordinators:

Mike and Sheri Corlett

8:00 AM – 12:30 PM. This was a new opportunity for our club. The Lyon Museum has showcased other cars, such as Cobras, but this was the first Corvette Show. About 90 Corvettes participated and PCC represented almost a 3rd of those. This was a rare opportunity to actually park on the flight line on the John Wayne airport property. We had to be escorted onto the property 20 at a time. it was a thrill to have a front row seat to watch the airport activity.

April 29

Kick Tires at Knowlwoods 8:00 AM

PCC Coordinator: Ken James

We had a great turnout with 31 members and 16 corvettes. If you've never been before, this is a nice way to start off a Saturday morning and have breakfast with your friends. Ken has been hosting this event for over 15 years. Thank you Ken!

Adventure into a Miniature World

It may be that some of us “nerded out” studying the intricacies of these miniature engineering miracles.

On Saturday April 15, 2023 twelve of us PCC members met up at Carl's Jr. in San Juan Capistrano and caravanned to the Miniature Engineering Craftsman Museum in Carlsbad. The museum recognizes outstanding craftsmanship in the world of miniatures. It features over 1500 items on display and is free to the public. Our excursion leader, Dan Miller, introduced us to his brother Terry Miller who is the museum director. Terry then gave us a tour of the museum. I was the most intrigued by the 1/6th scale Duesenberg exhibit by Louis

Chenot. The exhibit was enhanced with photos of comedian Jay Leno's extensive antique Duesenberg collection.

The twelve of us marveled at the engineering of functional engines. We were shown how a 19th century fan was powered in order to circulate warm air from a fireplace in preelectricity days. We saw small steam marine engines, miniature guns, ships, trains, cranes, clocks and even doll houses. We saw tiny people milking cows while the cow's tail wagged, and tiny athletes on a moving treadmill while their legs put in the steps. There were enough moving parts in the colorful exhibits to suit every taste.

Adventure into a Miniature World

It may be that some of us “nerded out” studying the intricacies of these miniature engineering miracles.

Part of the visit included demonstrations by a master machine shop engineer. He entertained us with explanations of some of his tiniest inventions. It may be that some of us “nerded out” studying the intricacies of these miniature engineering miracles. I think everyone enjoyed it.

After the museum we drove to the quaint Old California Mining Company in Old Town San Marcos where we were all accommodated at one big table and devoured Rueben sandwiches and other tasty lunches.

As my friend and I drove home, we mulled over the provocative slogan printed on the wall at the museum:

A man who works with his hands is a laborer, A man who works with his hands and his brains is a craftsman, A man who works with his hands, his brains, and his heart is an artist.

By Mike Corlett

Throughout my 30-year career at LAX airport administration, I was able to establish working relationships with airport executives at a number of Southern California airports. Through one of my connections at John Wayne Airport, I was fortunate enough to liaison with the staff of the Lyon Air Museum to coordinate the 'Corvettes on the Flight Line' event on April 22.

PCC members met at 7 am for a pre-event briefing on the West side of the airport, before proceeding to an airport entrance that led our Corvettes under escort onto the tarmac to park on the Lyon Air Museum flight line. Blessed with a beautiful sunny morning and clear skies, approximately 28 of our members were joined by Corvettes from around Orange County. In total, there were approximately 90 Corvettes that participated in this exciting Corvette show, including one gorgeous Cirrus private aircraft that Bob Rose brought from a hangar across the runways. Commercial and private aircraft using the runways just a few feet away from us provided a very interesting background! All cars were directed to parking positions by very organized museum staff and everyone was parked by 9:30 am.

All participants were able to tour the museum and observe priceless aircraft and interesting WW II vehicles, including a 1940s Mercedes Benz limousine used by Adolf Hitler.

Marker Wise and Mike O'Connor were able to be escorted to the roof of the building to capture some amazing photos of the colorful Corvettes assembled below. Overall, the event seemed to be a success and before we knew it our time was up and we were all escorted off the airfield. Hopefully we will be able to add this event to our calendar again in the future!

I was thrilled to set up the event as John Wayne Airport shares a special part of my life. In the late 1970s and early 1980s, I worked at JWA for Air California airlines, a small regional intrastate airline that flew to all major California cities. The airline was owned by Westgate-California Corporation, an organization that was based in San Diego and owned financial institutions, a major portion of the city's tuna fleet and at one time the San Diego Padres baseball team. Air California was based in Newport Beach and its headquarters were located at the intersection of Birch and Quail streets, just one block from Campus Jax.

The commercial aviation industry and Air California both suffered a financial downturn during the recession of 1981 and was losing money. Lyon Air Museum founder William Lyon, a retired Air Force general that became a major real estate developer in Orange County, bought the struggling Air California and became our airline's chief executive. Within a few months, Mr. Lyon purchased new aircraft, including the all-new McDonnell Douglas MD-80 and Boeing 737-300s. He also upgraded the airline's image with a new paint scheme and shortened the airline's name to AirCal.

As the airline industry recovered, so did AirCal, and by 1985 it returned to profitability. By 1986, American Airlines was seeking to increase its West Coast presence and made an offer to purchase AirCal from Mr. Lyon. So, in 1987 the purchase was complete and AirCal became a part of American Airlines. Mr. Lyon gained a substantial profit from the sale and I went from working for a small regional airline of 3,500 employees to an established major airline with a workforce of 100,000 employees and a global route network. In 1990, I left American Airlines to take a position with LAX administration.

Now that I am retired, I volunteer at JWA as an information ambassador where I provide travelers with information and, occasionally, stare out the terminal windows to look at the aircraft on the tarmac and remember those wonderful days of my youth working for AirCal.
